Composting and Worm Farming Rebates

About Composting and Worm Farming

Composting and worm farming are both great ways to recycle your food and organic waste at home.

As well as reducing waste to landfill, composting and worm farming are great for soil health, providing vital nutrients for both pot plants and gardens.

Choose a system that works for you

Compost bin

- requires an outdoor space
- needs both garden and food waste

Worm farm

- can be stored both indoor or outdoor
- needs a cool and dark location for the worms

Bokashi bin

- suits small spaces and can be stored both indoor or outdoor
- needs ongoing additives to work

Compost bin

Volume: 220L

Worm farm

Volume: 40L

Bokashi bin

Hardware stores or garden centres and online retailers sell compost bins, worm farms, bokashi bins and their accessories.

For more information on each system visit cityofparramatta.nsw.gov.au/waste

Note: The value of the rebate can not exceed the cost of the purchase.

Workshops

Council runs free workshops on composting, worm farming, and the use of bokashi bins.

For dates and locations, visit facebook.com/liveableparramatta and look under Events or call 9806 8295

Council also partners with compostrevolution.com.au to deliver online tutorials on those topics. However, composting products purchased via the Compost Revolution program do not qualify for this rebate as a separate online rebate has already been applied.
